A Fierce Battle Fought Beyond San Fernando.

FILIPINOS HAD A HEAVY LOSS.

Left Many Dead and Wounded on the Field-About 20 Americans Killed and Wounded-United States Force About 4,000-Rebels Had About 6,000.

Manila, Aug. 9.—12:25 p. m.—General MacArthur's force, consisting of horses or ponics. about 4,000 men, advanced five miles beyond San Fernando today and encountered and defeated a Filipino force of about 6,000 men. The enemy retreated, leaving many dead and wounded. The American loss in killed and wounded was 20.

VIGOROUS CAMPAIGN

PROMISED BY ROOT.

Said 50,000 Men Would Be In Philippines by Last of October and More if Needed.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., Aug. 9.—A correspondent saw Secretary of War Root after he had said goodby to the president and was preparing to take the train for Washington.

The secretary referred to his visit to Plattsburg barracks, where he witnessed a regimental drill of the Twentysixth regiment, under command of Colonel Rice. This regiment has been recruited and organized in a little over three weeks and they drilled like old veterans.

He said the progress made was simply marvelous.

"Will the war in the Philippines be prosecuted vigorously from now on?" asked the correspondent.

Mr. Root replied quick as a flash: "Yes, sir; the war in the Philippines from now on will be prosecuted with all possible energy. All the men, all the arms and all the supplies necessary to end the trouble in the islands will be furnished at the earliest possible moment."

"How large a force will be at the disposal of the commanding general there?" was asked,

"There will be 50,000 men there ready for active service at the close of the rainy season-about the last of Octoberand more will be sent there if necessary."

As to the rumor published in some of the papers that President McKinley and he were not agreeable upon the policy to be pursued in the Philippines, Mr. Root said:

"Of course that is all nonsense." When asked whether General Otis would be relieved of the command of the American forces in the Philippines, Mr. Root replied that he had nothing to say on that point at this time.

PLEA BY AGUINALDO.

Made an Appeal For Recognition of Independence Through Foreign Consuls at Manila.

MANILA, Aug. 9.—Aguinaldo appealed to the powers for recognition of "Filipino independence" in a document dated from Tarlac, July 27, and signed by Buencamino. It was received by all the foreign consuls in Manila, with the request that they forward to their respective governments. The Filipinos use their old argument that they had conquered the sovereignty of these islands from Spain before the signing of the treaty of Paris and therefore Spain was in no position to cede them to the United States. They argued that the possession of 7,000 Spanish prisoners, captured, with their arms, fighting against the Filipinos, 'is eloquent proof of the nullity of Spanish sovereignty, as when they surrendered Spain's hold was irrevocably lost."

The document then said:

"Replying to the Spanish commis-510n's request to release the prisoners because Spain no longer has political interests in the islands, we asked for a treaty of peace and friendship between Spain and the Filipinos, whereby the prisoners would be released. But the commissioners refused, because it would mean recognition of our independence. This is equivalent to saying that the prisoners must stay in our hands indefiinse their possession is our was method to adjust our account and Spain and obtain from her

The Filipines claimed that they conquered all the country except Manna and that they co-operated in securing the latter's capitulation by surrounding it at the cost of thousands of lives. They also claimed they conquered toe country unassisted, except for 60 guas that Admiral Dewey gave Aguinaldo, and that Admiral Dewey and the Brit ish and Belgian consuls recognized the Filipinos' sovereignty by asking for passes to visit the country.

They repeated the claim that they had letters from American consuls and generals recognizing their sovereignty and promising that the American would recognize their independence, "which was at the disposition of the

The Filipinos attempted to make capi tal out of the statement that Admiral Dewey had such confidence that Aguinaldo would observe and fulfill the rules of war that he gave him 100 Spanish prisoners which the American navy had captured. Finally, the Filipinoo appealed to the powers to influence Washington to bring to a termination "the unjust war which is devastating the country.'

foreign power entertained even the remotest idea of giving recognition to Aguinaldo and his associates Cn the contrary there has been the most friendly feeling maintained between this government and foreign power throughout the Philippine conflict.

The state department does not share the apprehension which is said to have arisen among many orncers that China has given indirect recognition to the Filipinos. This apprehension grew out of a report from General Otis that horses could not be secured for cavalry use from China because they were "contraband of war." At the state department it is said that the matter has not assumed a form involving the recognition of a state of war, but that Minister Conger reports that China's course is due entirely to certain domestic regulations prohibiting the exportation of MANILA, Aug. 2, via Hongkong, Aug. 9.—The gunboat Napidan last week shelled Paete, on the lake near Santa Cruz. The town was full of people who had been encouraged to return after General Lawton's expedition, having been assured that they would not be molested if they peaceably attended to their business. Lieutenant Copp, who was in command of the Napidan, heard that the insurgents had reoccupied the town, and steaming close in, opened fire with his 6-pounders without warning. The people seeing the boat approaching, fled to the hills in a terrified condition and with barely time to escape. One child was killed and many buildings were damaged. The authorities expressed great regret on account of the incident.

After the taking of Calamba by the Americans, General Lawton ordered that Captain Otis of the Washington regiment be relieved of his command and placed under arrest on account of slowness and seeming reluctance of the companies under his command in obeying the order to disembark from the cascoes and wade through the marshes under fire.

The men said that a majority of them had been sick and unfit for duty and were given to understand that they would not be asked to do any more fighting.

DREYFUS IN BAD HEALTH.

His Will Power Lending Him Strength to Stand the Ordeal-Secret Courtmartial Session.

RENNES, Aug. 9 .- The condition of Dreyfus is disquieting. His wonderful will power alone is lending him strength to go through the present ordeal. Phys ically he is extremely weak. His stomach refuses all solid food and he is only able to take milk. His family is very anxious.

A correspondent learns that the courtmartial was able, at the second day's proceedings, which were secret, to consider only part of the secret dossier. The documents were submitted to the judges in the order in which they were classified. M. Chanoine gave lucid explanations of the points which were not clear to Colonel Jouaust. M. Chanoine took the documents individually and explained them.

Major Carriere will later on state the conclusion he draws from the dossier. Maitres Labori and Demange, who listened with close attention to General Chanoine's explanations, did not enter into the discussion on the subject, the consideration of the dossier at that session being of a general character and more in the nature of a preliminary exammation.

Soldiers kept the crowds back from seeing very much of Dreyfus, in the passage from court to the prison. Some of the spectators only saw his head and Counsel propose, when the respective depositions are presented to the courtmartial, to charge either General Mercier or M. Casamer-Perier with perjury, under article 127 or the military code. An arrest would then occur instantly, while the accused is still in the witness box.

CHOATE NOT ALARMED.

London, Aug. 9.—Joseph H. Choate, the United States ambassador to Great Britain, was interviewed in regard to the recent "war or arbitration" speech delivered by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the Canadian premier. He said:

"There will be no war. It is safe to say that ao amount of a politics or politicians in either country could occasion war in this connection. The ambussador Said that the Cana-

The negotiations were progressing, and he belleved satisfactory settlement of the Alaska question would be achieved.

Conclusion of the Report Made to Italy.

INNOCENT MEN AMONG VICTIMS.

Three of the Italians Strang Up In Louisiana Had Nothing to Do With the Trouble-Others' Offense Not Sufficient For Hanging.

Washington, Aug. 9.—The state department received from the Italian authorities a copy of the complete report made by the Marquis Romano, secretary of the Italian embassy here, on his personal investigation of the recent lynching of five Italians at Talulah, La. It was said that Charles Difata upbraided Dr. Hodges in an offensive way for having killed an animal and accompanied this by a blow of the fist. Then, it was stated, Dr. Hodges shot at Difata. Whether or not the shot took authorities to learn, as the bodies of the men atter being lynched were disfigured and dispos d of. But at all events it is ground following the shot from Dr. Hodges' weapon. At this point Joe Difata made his appearance, and seeing his brother down and a second shot about to be fired, shot at Dr. Hodges.

Then followed the lynching of these two Italians, Joe Difata and Charles Difata. The mob took them before they had been arrested.

The report stated that throughout the occurrence the three other It lians -Frank Difata, Joseph Feducio and John Cerami-were in another street and did not know what was occurring.

It was stated that they did not take part in the attack on Dr. Hodges, and that they did not even know of it until some time after when the local officers came to arrest them. This arrest was accomplished and the three Italians were actually placed in jail. The report then brought out that the mob, having already lynched Charles and Joe Difata, turned their attention to the three Italians under arrest. Two of these men, Joseph Feducio and Frank Difata, were first taken from the offi-cers and lynched. Subsequently, and some little time afterward, the mob returned and took John Cerami and lynched him. In this circumstantial way the report brings out that the mob made three distinct movements against the Italians, and that there was after they had disposed of the first two men.

Particular importance is laid upon this feature, for while it is said there may have been some extenuating circumstances in visiting such summary punishment on those immediately concerned in the affray with Dr. Hodges, yet the time elapsing before the second and third lynchings is regarded as an element of particular atrocity.

The full report has been forwarded to the Italian foreign office, and a copy of it placed in the hands of the state department.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 9.—Marquis Camilio de Romano left for Washington. Marquis Romano goes back with a lot of papers and statements. He took considerable evidence in Vicksburg as to the citizenship of the five men and. according to his evidence, they were all loyal subjects of King Humbert. When he visited Governor Foster, however, and found in the executive mansion the court documents from Madison parish showing when and where the three Difata brothers were naturalized and took the oath of allegiance to the United States, the marquis was not so sure about his evidence gathered in Vicksburg. The report of the special envoy and that of Governor Foster clash at nearly every point.

BRILLIANT RECEPTION TO DEWEY. He Exchanged Visits With Italian Army Commander.

Naples, Aug. 9.—Admiral Dewey exchanged visits with the commander of the army corps here. The reception accorded the American admiral by Vice Admiral Gonzales, commander-in-chief of the maritime department of Naples, was of a brilliant character, and Admiral Dewey is delighted with the cordial hospitality everywhere extended to him. In an interview Admiral Dewey said:

"I do not desire tetes or demonstrations at home. It is enough for me that my country knows I did my duty as a soldier." Mr. Lewis M. Iddings, secretary of the United States embassy at Rome, went to Sorranto, where he will give a luncheon to Admiral Dewey today.

Van Wyck For Presidential Nomination,

Sarafoga, N. Y., Aug. 9.—A piazza conference was held at the Grand Union hotel between Augustus Van Wyck, William F. Harrity of Pennsylvania, ex-chammen of the Democratic national committee: "Free! Jackson of Tennessee, Colonel Dick Bright, sergeant at arms of the United States senate, and James Snevim of Brooklyn. It was noticed that none or the Tanimany people were in the conference group. The general trend of the conversation related to the gaining strength of Van Wyck for the Demo cratic presidential nomination.

ATLANTA, Aug. 9 .- A conference of Populist party leaders of this state was held here. They determined to put out a state, county and municipal ticket next year. The conference declared against fusion.

THE END OF A BANDIT

HOW SAM BASS MET A VIOLENT DEATH IN A TEXAS TOWN.

The Shooting of the Votorious Desperado Was the Outcome of a Deliberate Murder Committed by One of His Gang of Outlaws.

"In the little town of Round Rock, in Williamson county. Tex., not more than 30 miles distant from Austin, repose the remains of one of the most desperate highwaymen that ever operated in our section," said Mr. I. N. Crocker of the Lone Star State to a re-

"It was in the spring of 1878 that Sam Bass met his fate in this sleepy little town, and when he died with his boots on the southwest was rid of a criminal who was easily the peer of Jesse James, though he hadn't quite as long a run as that noted outlaw. Bass was a product of Michigan-at least, his sister, a gentle girl, came down from some town in that state to see that his body was decently interred.

"Bass had collected about him a company of as hardened thieves as ever engineered a hold up. The gang had cobbed a number of trains in Missouri and Arkansas and concluded they would make one more good haul in Texas before riding across the border into Mexico, where they proposed to stay in retirement for a season.

"Bass had planned the looting of the only bank at Round Rock as an easier job and doubtless a better paying one than tackling a train, which feat had been performed too often to be thoroughly safe. By changing his programme to raiding a village bank there might be more lucre and less risk.

"So on that lovely morning in May when he and his fellow thieves rode into the unsuspicious town they chuckled to think what an easy job it would be to transfer the bank's cash to their pockets. So thoroughly certain were they of getting off with the plunder that they were in no haste about the matter. One wanted to get a shave, another went into a restaurant and so they scattered singly over the place, but there was an understanding as to the time of attack, and a rendezfous was fixed upon.

"Meanwhile, unknown to the bandits, a squad of mounted Texas rangers had been pressing hard upon the trail of the bad men, and within an hour after the Bass outfit entered Round Rock Sergeant Dick Ware, with eight or ten rangers, also reached the scene. He wasn't aware of the presence of the robbers, nor did they dream that the officers of the law were in that vicinity. Neither did any citizen of the town have the remotest idea of the identity of certain rough looking men, strangers in the place. But they might be cowboys from some distant west Texas cattle ranch, for the presence of such was too common to occasion notice.

"The climax came quite by accident One of the ruffians who had sauntered into a store to make a few purchases, in reaching for his purse to make payment, disclosed a big Colt's revolver. The Texas law against carrying guns was strict, and it so happened that the man who saw the weapon was none other than the town marshal, as brave a fellow as ever lived. He walked up to the desperado and said quite courteously:

"'My friend, I'll have to relieve you of that six shooter.'

"'T'll give it to you, then,' said the robber with an oath, and in a second had drawn his weapon and fired upon the marshal, who fell dead at the re-

"Upon this the robber rushed out of the store, and immediately his comrades came running to the spot, but no faster than did the rangers with their Winchesters, ready for action. In a second it seemed as if both sides had the situation revealed, and the robbers turned to run to where their horses stood tied, a block from where the murder of the marshal occurred. Before he had run 50 yards Dick Ware had sent a bullet into the head of Barnes, Bass' lieutenant, which laid the highwayman low.

"Bass, mortally wounded, managed to breakneck speed. The animal ran for about three miles till he reached the open prairie and stopped to graze. As he did so his rider, unable to sit longer in the saddle from loss of blood, fell to the ground.

"When they found him a few hours later, he was dying. He recognized Sergeant Ware as the man who bad killed bim and said he wanted Ware to have his borse. He regretted their procrastination in robbing the bank, for if they had only known the rangers were so near they could have finished the job and escaped."-Washington Post

Watering the Milk.

The milkmen of Naples have a way of carrying concealed to their waistcoats bladders full of water.

From these bladders india rubber tubing stretches down their arms, and by simply pressing their sides while they are drawing the milk they are able to squirt water from the bladder into the jug or basin simultaneously with the milk. So it is quite a common plan for a woman who is getting her jug filled with milk to hold the milkman's wrists while be milks his cow or goat. Until the stranger has the reason explained to bim he thinks it very odd to see women crouching down by the milkman, keeping a tight hold on to each of his wrists.-San Francisco Call.

How an Impecunious Bohemian Won the Musical Prize.

`

The talk had turned on the supernataral, and nearly every one of our coterie in the Bohemian club, in whose rooms we were, had related some personal ghostly experience or had drawn on memory for tales of spirits in other lands. When Jenkins turned to me with a request that I add my mite to the evening's entertainment, I protested that I thought I should be let offthat I had done my share in playing the piano for them all evening-but they would not have it so. "We have seen the artist all evening," said Jen; "let us have a look at the Van we used to know." I still begged to be excused. but the crowd, a merry one at best, would not have it so. "The story or no more champagne!" "Well, gentlemen." I said, "I do not know of anything ghostly and cannot tell a story with clanking chains and gliding shrouds. but if you insist upon being amused I will tell you of the only queer thing that ever happened to me. I will offer you no explanation. I do not profess to understand it. I can only tell you just what happened and let you judge for yourselves." "I was studying hard," I continued,

gress far enough before June in my musical studies to be able to take a few pupils in the summer, in order to earn enough to continue at the conservatory In the fall. I was a poor man then. Five cents then often meant a dinner for me. A dollar was untold wealth. I walked often three and four miles to save car fare, and I have known what it means to go sneaking up a side street in order not to meet a friend lest he hurt my pride by asking me let him be my banker. I have gone ragged and hungry, have been cold and without shoes, that I might pay the rent of the piano I loved and in some way struggle on toward my goal, that of a musician who should win not only money, but fame. Rather a large ambition for a poor man of 24, with no prospects but work and debts, no hope for anything but in the distant future, and nothing to warrant that but an inborn conviction that there was music in him and the kindness of some of his teachers. My parents, most of my friends, all told me repeatedly I was a fool, I had had good chances to go into business, could have been a young man of some social prominence and have had all the luxuries that I lacked at that time, but I preferred music and starvation. I tell you all this that you may realize what it meant to me when a Mr. Elliott offered a prize of $2,000 to the pupil of the B--- conservatory who should in three months' time compose and play the most meritorious composition. I thought that if I could win that prize my troubles would be over indeed. There was enough to keep me two years at least from want and pay for my musical course into the bargain. "I soon saw the list of entries for the competition, and, while finding many names that I had not expected to conto get upon his horse, which he urged | tend with, I was not utterly disheartened until I saw the names of two of the most promising of the senior class It had never occurred to me that I should have to compete with scholars out of my own class. I was disgusted. and had it not been for the confort of one friend, the only triend who was never too tired to give me a word of encouragement, the little girl whom I knew believed in me-lind it not been for her I must necessarily have be come so discouraged as to give it all up-and go into business after all. "I had three mouths to work in, three months to compose, learn and play a composition which should be judged the best out of 40 entries, quite a task at the least. I went to work, but whether it was owing to the bunger that often kept me lying sleepless in my bed I do not know, but all my efforts appeared to be tame, poor, what we call colorless. "It was at this time, when I used my last shred of patience, that Elsa, my little friend, was killed-killed by the drunkenness of a switchman, murdered by the carelessness of a railroad company who will employ such a man. Yes, just a common railroad accident. but it killed Elsa, and any hope I had of winning that prize went like a flash. I had no room in my heart for anything but grief.

"I had not withdrawn my entry for the competition; I had simply intended not to appear. In the light of future events, it was a fortunate thing that I did not; perhaps it was all a part of the strange experience that I am about is a monkey that plays the violin." to tell you.

glass of champange), and he had been trying to cheer me up, but with ill success. I sad reached my home about half past 11, and gone up to my room THE DRAMATIC EXIT OF OLD CAP and dropped wearily into a chair, without even troubling to light the lamp. But I was restless, and I soon rose and went to the window, throwing it wide open. It was clear, the moon was nearly full and almost directly overhead. As I gazed out into the cold, clear air, I heard a clock strike 12, and then another clock farther down town struck, and then a clock in the house-it seemed as if all creation was made of clocks, all striking 12. I turned, intending to go to bed, when my attention was arrested by a cloud, passing over the face of the moon. You know how fanciful a man will get at timeswell I thought that cloud had the shape of Elsa's head, and then, as it passed, it seemed to me as if, for a moment, the moon was not so bright who won't admit it. I knew an old as it was. It was as if some one had turned down the light of the Lady of Night. I laughed drearily to myself, thinking it was a trick of my eyes, and I do not know that it was not. I am merely telling this as it happened.

"Well, as I say, I was about to close the window and retire, when I was suddenly assailed with the conviction that the room was not as I had left it. Something was different; I could not any, and the Lord knows his record say what, but I had a distinct idea that there was a difference. Puzzled, I started to light the lamp, when I most plainly heard the sound of a low minor chord-a chord struck with a slight roll from treble to bass-a chord that was the beginning and the ending as well of a little song, a poor little thing at best, but one that I had composed and given to Elsa, and one that only she and I had ever heard.

"I turned savagely toward the piano. I knew there was but that one piano in hearing distance, and I knew I was alone in the room. I knew if that piano was the origin of the sound I had just heard that it was produced by some other than ordinary means. I lighted the lamp. There stood the piano, lid open, just as I had left it-silent as I had left it-with the exception that there was the overtone of a softly in the air. I looked, involuntarily, at the pedal. Gentlemen, that pedal was held down! It is monstrous. it is incredible, but it is a fact-that pedal was held down-and even as I looked it was released and came slowly back to its natural position, as if the foot of the invisible performer was taken caressingly from it.

"To say that I was startled would be to put it very mildly. I was thunderstruck and not a little frightened, not congratulate yourself on being alive. of bodily harm, but frightened as we usually are of things we cannot understand.

"I took a step toward the instrument. As I did so I not only heard that chord recognized him as a youngster who again, but saw it struck! I repeat, I lived a couple of miles this side of Old saw the keys go softly down and Cap's on the same trail. He rode right heard the sound, soft, low, but clear as up to where we were sitting and rolled a bell. I stopped, petrified. I turned, off his horse, with his eyes a-popping walked an uncertain step toward the and his breath a-panting. door, turned again, and then dropped weakly into a chair. 'Well,' I thought, tall Texan, who was in the party. 'I am either dreaming or I have gone brace up and do something.' But even yer kin git. Th' Injuns is comin!' as I moved to 'do something' there ed, spellbound. I had never heard anything like it before, nor have I composition that has made me whatever I am-it is called my best compoposer, because I have never since been able to do anything so good.

minutes, the piano behaving in all respects as if being played by a human being. The keys were struck with every note, the pedals worked as if with that rapid trill that ends on A it had begun-and I seemed to hearmind, I say I seemed, to hear-a low, sweet laugh-Elsa's laugh. But I am quite willing to believe that this might have been all imagination. How do I know the whole thing was not imagiknow it from my consciousness of what is real and what is a dream. I know it from the music, so strangely played for me and which I have never forgotten, although I have never been able to play it with the power it had when first I heard it, but lest you say that I have only mental, personal proofs, I will tell you this: I had just had my piano but in perfect order. newly tuned, yet that A flat, on which there is a long trill at the end of the composition, that A flat was a full minor third out of tune, had dropped that amount in an evening-and yet the three strings of that middle register A flat were in perfect tune together. "That, gentlemen, is all there is to my experience. It was my first and my last. Perhaps I should say that I told the story to the judges before playing the composition in competition for the Elliott prize, but they evidently regarded me as a harmless lunatic. Anvway, they let me play it as my own, and it won the much needed $2,000, enabling me to complete my course and win what success has come to me. I have, as I told you, no explanation to offer. It is as mysterious to me as it must be to you. I have asked often for help to solve the riddle, but I have never come nearer the truth than at first. I shall be very glad of any light any of you gentlemen can throw on the subject."—Washington Post.

IN A BLAZE OF GLORY

FROM LIFE'S STAGE.

He Lived a Wild Life and Wanted a Wild Death, and He Summoned a Wild Audience to See Him Do His Final Wild Act. "The longing for the center of the stage exists not only in the centers of civilization," said a man who had gone west, made his pile in mining and come back to enjoy himself. "You'll find it up in the Rockies among the hardest, toughest citizens that ever handled a pick or shot a bear. 'How he managed to live I never knew, but he seemed contented. His evil deeds never seemed to worry him was black enough. He had been a great gun fighter in his time, and even in the days I speak of it wouldn't do to tread on his toes. He loved to tell of his wild life, and the frankness with which he related his somewhat questionable escapades made him an excellent entertainer if you didn't happen to feel squeamish. Squeamishness isn't a common fault out that way, and everybody knew and liked Old Capthat's what they called him-except the few who had been in trouble with him at one time or another.

"Now, no one ever thought that Old Cap was spectacular. He was the last man on earth who would be thought likely to want the center of the stage for any of his stunts. But he did, and the climax of his life was more pyrotechnical than any man's I ever got mixed up with. He certainly did go pedal held bass note still vibrating out in a blaze of glory. It all happened about seven years ago. I was in Tucson. A lot of us boys were sitting around in front of a ginmill one afternoon, just talking about things in general. "Old Cap's cabin was situated in a clearing off the trail around a bend, pressed by a foot of flesh, and then with high rocks hiding it until you came out in the open. We reached the flat the music broke off as abruptly as turn in safety and swept around it at full gallop. There we saw, first of all, the little cabin looking as snug as usual, and then we noticed Old Cap sitting astride a keg about ten feet in front of his door. His big, gray sombrero was cocked to one side, and the nation? Well, in the first place, I red scarf about his neck gave him the ing until we had come within 75 yards of him, he lifted his hat and moved it above his head with a hoarse, wild yell. As I think of it now it sounded like the cry of a madman. Then be reached into his pocket and drew forth a match. This he drew carefully across a rock which was within reach of the keg upon which he sat. and saving it from the breeze until it was safely lighted he opened his legs and dropped it between them it between them.

Old Cap's body flew skyward, and when it came down it didn t look like a human being's. He had been sitting on a keg of powder and had deliberately blown himself up. Funny thing for a man to do, wasn't it? Old Cap apparently got tired of life and decided to kill himself. He wanted an audience. So he sent the kid out to drum one up. He got what he wanted, but it wasn't a very sympathetic one. Men don't go much on gush out there, and the Texan was a little sore about the trick we'd had played on us. diseases of women come to rich and poor and catarrh is their cause. The influence of catarrh on the home lives of our women can hardly be appreciated until the real nature of catarrh is understood. SAILER RESIGNS.

Calls in His Suits, But Says He Will Give Them Back to the Team if it Reorganizes-The History of the Difficulty.

Leftfielder Gove, Centerfielder Nolan, Shortstop Adams and Pitcher Keller, as stated in Saturday's Independent, refused to longer play with the Massillon baseball team, because President Sailer, of the association, would not resign. Gove asked for Sailer's resignation just before the hour for calling Saturday's game arrived. When Sailer declared he would not, Gove said he would, and walked off the grounds, followed by the others. On Sunday Mr. Sailer underwent a change of mind, and after the game he ordered all players to turn their uniforms over to him, the suits being his personal property, and tendered his resignation, to take effect Monday evening, when a division of Sunday's proceeds and other business will be transacted

These subscriptions were made monthly by local lovers of baseball, some agreeing to pay $1 and others $2. When it came to paying salaries it was learned that this subscription money had not been collected. Wittmann, who had secured most of the names, said he had no time to collect it. Gove and Keller, when asked by Sailer to go after it, also refused. So Sailer paid the salaries of Smith and Heyman with money taken in at the gate, which, together with the $60 needed for the expenses of the Pittsburg Junction team, so reduced the amount for division among the men that each secured but a trifle more than $3 A howl went up Charges and counter-charges were made. Adams has signed with Canton, but I think he could be gotten back here if the team was re-organized with some other man at the head. We do not wish to enter into a controvery over the matter. There is likely to be a demand for our potatoes in Cuba. This will affect only the markets of the eastern cities. Many eggs are already being sent to Havana, but the lack of transportation facilities in the way of refrigeration is against the egg trade. The eggs are apt to become like the canned meat rather malodorous.

THE WHEELING & LAKE ERIE. The Company's Shops Will All be

Moved to Ironville.

According to the Toledo Blade, the rumors of the removal of the C., C. & S. shops from Canton to Navarre are without foundation, as all the shops will be concentrated at Ironville. The Biade of Saturday says:

The Cleveland, Canton & Southern was turned over to the Wheeling today. Official announcement was made in New York necessary to the transfer. While the deal has been practically closed for two months, the papers were not signed until today. Another action was taken today in. New York which affects Toledo. It was to move most of the general offices to Cleveland. It is understood that this change is made in consideration for some securities which a Cleveland syndicate floated. Cleveland capital is now largely interested in the Wheeling.

While Toledo loses the general offices, the new company has decided upon a policy which will concentrate all of the road's shops at Ironville. The present car shops are to be enlarged. in order to take care of the business of the new system. Already the company has decided to rebuild 500 coal cars, and a new issue of bonds provides for additional equipment, which will be built in Toledo. Besides this, the locomotive works at Norwalk will be moved to Toledo The present management's policy will be to and that point will be Toledo. The changes in the general offices of the comtendent Stout, who is at the head of the operating department, will still remain in Toledo. Only President Blickensderfer and part of the traffic department will go to Cleveland.

The Devereux division of the Brother hood of Locomotive Engineers have disclaimed responsibility for the individual acts of Grand Chief P. M. Mr. Ratchford is connected with the subcommission on mining, as a member of which he made a tour of all the Western mining states, including Idaho, where a thorough investigation of conditions was made. Speaking of the permit system, now in effect in Idaho, Mr. Ratchford today said:

> "This, as introduced by the state authorities, is the most damnable system on record. No man can seek employment in the mine unless he is acceptable to the governor of the state or those acting under him, and an employer who wishes to engage a man to work in or around the mines is denied the right to so do under penalty of law. This is surely an abridgement of the right of private contract, a right which employers have always contended for. The Coeur d'Alenes is yet under martial law, and about two hundred men are confined in the bull pen. That innocent men are incarcerated there there is no doubt or denial, which, in my judgment, is a blot upon the name of the state and upon justice. If success attend such a system as this in Idaho, it must soon reach national proportions, and the American character that they might have the > right to earn an honest living. "I have found," continued Mr. Ratchford, "that a great deal of the difficulty existing between operators and miners in Utah, Colorado, Idaho, Montana and Washington is due to a lack of understanding between the two interests. The employers and workingmen here are almost total strangers to each other. Neither the employer nor the workman consults the other in the matter of wages or other matters affecting the trade in which they are jointly interested, but seemingly prefer to do business at long range and usually by arbitrary power. I do not say that this is not followed elsewhere, but happily we are drifting away from it and adopting in its stead a more humane and conservative policy."

Mother Kills Her Daughter and Drowns Herself.

DIED TO AVOID DISGRACE.

Emory Wise, of Greentown, Arises to Find His Step-Daughter Lying in Her Own Blood-The Mother's Body Found in an Old Stone Quarry.

GREENTOWN, Aug. 7.-Coroner Schufelle has taken all depositions in the murder of 15-year old Ruth Swartz, and in the suicide of Mrs. Katherine Wise, mother of the dead girl, and supposed murderess, but as yet has returned no verdict. There are no new developments. The circumstances connected with the tragedy were brought out Sunday afternoon at the coroner's inquest, and BULL PEN OF D'ALENES, show it to have been one of the most ghastly in the history of Stark county. It was related by Emory A. Wise, husband of the suicide, that his wife, who usually slept with her daughter in a down-stairs room, refused Saturday night to stay there, but came up stairs. She also refused to disrobe for the night. The husband states that the wife and daughter had consulted physicians in the village and in Akron, Saturday, with a view of getting relief for the daughter. Failing in this the wife and mother declared, says the testimony, that she would never allow her daughter to live in disgrace. She said she would kill her and then end her own life.

Early Sunday morning the husband missed his wife. He went down stairs and discovered a light burning on a table in the room in which the murdered girl lay. He turned the light higher and saw the girl's corpse.

Search was made for the missing woman, and the whole town was aroused. Tracks were found in the mud, it having rained during the night, and by these the woman was traced to an old stone quarry on the Borst celery farm. In the quarry was a large pool containing fifteen or twenty feet of water. Her sunbonnet lay on the banks. Grappling hooks were secured, and a hunt was made. The second haul brought up the woman's corpse

The murdered girl had resided in the country until several months ago, when she removed with her parents to the village. Four gashes were cut in her throat. One severed her left jugular vein and her windpipe. The others were deep. In the struggle the girl was hacked in her left hand and left shoulder, and her left thumb nail was knocked off by a blow from a two by four scantling about two feet long, which was people are not ready, and shall never be found under her bed, and which had ev-

Going into the house, he found that his office, which is always open, had been entered in his absence. It is his opinion that Mrs. Wise had come to do away with him, as she is said to have threatened. The mother and daughter will be buried in one grave. The funeral will take place Tuesday afternoon.

Who Will be Our Next President?

Politicians are now planning for the presidential campaign of 1900, but the war has so overshadowed all other matters that politics is almost unnoticed. Many people are of the opinion that the candidates will be the same as in 1896, but there may be a "dark horse" who will win the race. Popularity has much to do with candidates. John Hossimer, who has been working in town for a short time, pleaded guilty to a charge of assault before Mayor Wise in the same portion, but were not so Monday morning and was fined $25 and costs. Hossimer was arrested Saturday night. He arrived at the square with an excited crowd at his heels, and was taken in charge by Policeman Wittmann. Mrs Sarah Baker, an aged lady who conducts a peanut stand in West Main street, declared that Hossimer had abused her. She said he was intoxicated and objected to anyone but himself being on the sidewalk, using force to prevent her from passing him in Clay street. Her screams brought a number of people and frightened Hossimer away, the crowd following. Hossimer told the mayor that he had no recollection of what occurred Saturday night. He appeared intelligent and gentlemanly, furnishing another illustration of the changes drink can

A POLITICAL CANARD. So Speaks Rice of his Reported Promise to Pontius.

Ex-Mayor Rice, of Canton, saw a great many prominent Democrats in the short time that he was in Massillon Tuesday. He told them and THE INDEPENDENT that he was not more friendly than usual with Superintendent Pontius, of the workhouse, and that he never promised him the the position of warden of the Ohio penitentiary in case he is elected governor, which Mr. Rice regards as one of the certainties of the future.

Under the impression that his circular etters, with which the town is flooded, had not reached all the unturned stones, C. C. Card, a Canton aspirant to the sheriff job, is spending his leisure hours calling on Massillon Democrats. He is one of the candidates slated by the campaign managers for withdrawal, and his opening remark usually is that he is in the race to remain.

Another bloody page has been added to Stark county's history. While the inhabitants of Greentown were just recovering from the shock of the horrible tragedy that had occurred in their midst in the early part of the week, the inhabitants of Waco, a peaceful little village about two miles south of Canton, awoke to find, that while they slumbered, a scene, equally terrible, if not more so. had transpired in their vicinity.

Edward Eckinger, a coal miner, wife and little girl, aged nearly 3 years, were found dead at their home on the William Snyder farm, about three miles below the village, and near the "Hardscrable" school house, early this morning. Their bodies were found in the house by Mrs. Jacob Thouvenin, a neighbor. The Eckingers spent Tuesday evening at the Thouvenin residence and went home about 10 o'clock. It is said that they quarreled en route. Seeing no one astir about the premises Mrs. Thouvenin became worried this morn ing and went to the house. The deaths probably occurred shortly after they for the night.

Coroner Schuffelle received word that three people had been found dead near the Waynesburg road, and immediately started to investigate. On reaching the scene of the tragedy, he found the three the house, which is a two-story frame up to the tragedy. building. All had been shot through the body in the region of the heart with affoat. ### A CONVICT SHIP.

HIDEOUS APPEARANCE OF THE PASSENGERS

Conveying Prisoners From Odessa to Quelled by Hot Water Hose.

The sailing of a Russian convict ship from Odesea to the Island of Saghalien, in the Japan sea, is always an impressive sight. The motley crowd indigenent, but there are in addition n.any government officials full of importance ous to all countries, is, of course, pres-In their emblazoned uniforms, and numerous members of the clergy attending to perform the ceremony of sprinkling the ship with holy water and to give the inmates a parting bl saing and a godspeed. Nothing is done in hely Russia without the help of the priests and a Russian is bathed in holy water from the cradle to the grave.

The religious ceremony over, it is with a cargo of heavy hearts that the convict ship—usually built at Glasg W, by the way-weighs anchor and departs, for even a hardened convict would prefer serving his sentence on his native soil to dragging out his existence in a distant fore.gn land. But, however that may be, the accommodacions for the thousand or more convicts on board is ample and the arrangements for their well-being complete. The food provided is good and wholesome, and it is not an infrequent thing for the people in the saloon-the convict ship carries ordinary passeagers as well as state prisoners- to ask for conv.ct soup and rye bread.

All the convicts are in feters, wrists and ankle bracelets with a connecting chain, this and their half-shaved heads presenting a most hideous appearance. The daily routine on board is unvarying therefore, to change the monetony, the prisoners have to resort to all kinds of devices to make the time pass away as pleasantly as the circumstances will allow. Most lower-class Russians are born card players, so the convicts collect all the odd scraps of paper they can lay their hands on.

Clubs and spades are roughly scribbled on these slips with the ink supplied for letter-writing purposes, while to provide hearts and diamonds of the requisite color, one or more of the company consent to have a vein opened. This delicate operation is performed with the aid of the tin spout of a tea can, ground to a sharp edge on the iron deck. This improvised lance also does duty as a razor, serving to remove the remaining hair from the head of some devout follower of Islam. The stakes of the card players are knobs of sugar, saved by the rigorious economy at the tea-table; when these fail, bones and odds and ends are substituted.

On the fifteenth day at sea the fetters are removed. That is, indeed, a day of rejoicing, and the most hardened criminal gives vent to a sigh of redief at being released from these hateful emblems of bondage. The coveted freedom is not however, of long duration. A poor, inoffensive Crimean Tartar accidently treads an the foot of a cut throat villain, to be se zed immedfately by the throat. ### THE YELLOW METAL FEVER

Worderful Gold Finds Reported from All Parts Since Klondike Craze Began.

It is within the bounds of truth to say that hardly a day has passed since the announcement of the Klondyke gold discoveries that wonderful finds of the yellow metal have not been report-Saghalten-Novel Method of Procuring ed from various parts of the Union. In a Pack of Cards-Riots on Shipboard practically all cases it is represented that the deposits are of amazing richness, that the discoverers fairly "walk on gold," that "intense excitement" has overtaken the neighboring communities, and that "hundreds are rushing to the mines." That these reports are not pure inventions is shown by what the officials of the United States mints say. They are overrun with samples of dust and ore sent in for analysis, and say that only about one in a hundred of these samples contain any gold, and that generally wheregold appears, it is not in quantity to pay for mining. Most of the samples consist simply of that genrally where gold appears, it is iron pyrites, mica, talc, yellow particles of sand, and the like.

In a word, the popu'ar imagination has been fired by the Klondyke reports as not before since 1849, and men think to have found gold in every bright and yellowish substance their feet stumble once more to the fatal grip of the preconly one quarter of these reports which bees to keep warm. have appeared in the past two months were true, the world would face a flood alarmed over the outlook, because they for ordinary colonies. are under the control of the reasonable faculties of men, while it is the fools who think they are stumbling about among great rocks of gold, and are sending out reports to that effect from more than half the states in the Union.

That discoveries of great richness have been made in Alaska is unquestionable; but in supposing that that bleak and remote region, ice-bound through nine months of the year, is to yield treasure enough to revolutionize the monetary system of the world, we must fly in the face of what experience has taught throughtout the time of regold is never found save in limited and hardly-obtained quantity; and that alluvial deposits first found and mined are the richest, and are quickly exhausted. Even in the hight of California excitement, 45 years ago, geologists were not wanting to predict that the go'den stream would speedily abate in volume, and that ere long the bulk of the product would represent a more and more commensurate amount of labor expended. If that was true, as it proved to be true, of mines workable all the year round, what of Alaska's chances of making gold so common and cheap as to powerfully affect prices or the value of gold in relation to commodit-

The "Ice Locomotive."

The following description of the ice locomotive used successfully in the Michigan pineries ,and which will be tried on the road to the Klondyke, is taken from the New York Herald.

The Glover locomotive is very simple in construction and principle, cons.sting of a boiler, twin engines, driving wheel and other necessary appurtenances, supported in a steel frame. The frame rests upon runners, fore and aft, and the locomotive proper is hinged to the frame by steel beams. The great feature of the machine, however, is a huge traction wheel which is between wheel. The latter is rotated by an engine with horse power ranging from twenty to sixty, geared from five to nine to one. All the heat from the boiler furnace and from the exhaust steam is utilized in the drum, into which it is conveyed through the trunnions. By this means the wheel is kept hot all the time. About the wheel, V shaped testh, three by twelve inches, are set "dodging." The action of the heat from the toothed cylinder prevents the snow from clogging it, and at the same time plete failure. Never before in the hiscompresses, with the aid of its weight, tory of American agriculture was there the snow underneath into a solid mass of snow ice, thereby giving sufficient | In parts of Iowa, Missouri and Ne-

According to Mr. Glover's figures it will cost about $250,000 to form a company to equip and put trains in operation, this including the building of a permanent road in the rough parts between Fort Wrangel and Telegraph Creek, or on the other rowe between Dyea and Fort Selkirk. in a pound of bees there are about 5,000. A gallon of honey weighs 11 to 12 pounds, according to its density. Taking too much honey from bees is like killing a cow to get her milk. Only the surplus should be removed. Growers of hot-house tomatoes now keep swarms of bees in the houses to fertilize the bloom. In small houses one is sufficient; in large one two or three swarms are required.

If feeding is to be done, feed now rather than in winter. Nothing is better than syrup made from granulated sugar. Bees winter well on it and come out in good order in the spring.

The dark brown color of combs is caused by the bees using bits of old wax. When the sections are too near the brood comb, the bees seal it partly with old black wax. The use of thick top bars prevents this, it is said.

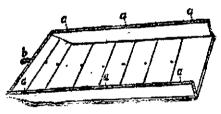

The bee-keeper who is not at the same time a fruit raiser misses much that he might enjoy as he goes along. Bees and trees with vines can as well occupy the same ground and all be taken care of and enjoyed together.

Oats Shortage Finally Measured.

The oats crop of 1896 gave every promise of a record breaking yield up to within ten days of harvest. The season as a whole had been entirely favorable, there was strong, vigorous growth of stalk and every promise of full heading. A very few days after July 1 the crop in every important district west of Central Illinois was suddenly attacked by rust and blight in different forms, and inside of a period of ten days one of the most promising crops on record was turned into a partial failure, in many districts a comsuch a sudden shifting of the scenes. resistance to enable the teeth to pull a braska the straw was burned standing train burdened with a 200-ton weight, and in other localities where the crop The cost of each locomotive is about was cut, the owners regretted the labor $4,000; the necessary cars attached given it, as the thresher showed emp-

DIPHTHERIA IN FOWLS.

No sure Cure, But There Are Hopeful Ren e les.

This disease is common in the fail months. The first symptoms usually noticed is heavy, difficult breathing and a stretching up of the neck. After awhile the comb turns purple and the bird suffocates. No "sure cure" for this complaint is known, but a trial of the following is recommended:

Take a large, long shoe box and make a partition a foot from the small end and cover the bottom of this small apartment with coal ashes. Mix a tablespoonful each of pine tar, turpentine and sulphur, adding a few drops of carbolic acid and a pinch of gum Canton....... 10 15 camphor. Heat a brick very hot and lay it on the ashes. An examination will show a whitish membrane forming in the throat. The formation of this may sometimes be checked by spraying the throat with Ft. Wayne ar. peroxide of hydrogen or with this formula: One ounce glycerine, five drops nitric acid, one gill water.

All affected birds should be separated from the general flock, and care should be exercised in handling them, as it is thought the contagion may be communicated to human beings.

this is a broad, overhanging roof, with beneath it. Where one can build beneath the shelter of a great tree, such a construction is not needed, but most ice houses must be exposed to the sun's rays. In which case a double-decked roof of this sort will prove exceedingly advantageous.

Cider Season in Full Swing. In every year of a big apple crop the proportion of early fruit going to the cider mill is large. The present season is no exception, and is not opening satisfactorily to manufacturers and dealers, although hopes are exlater. The situation is probably a little more favorable in New York and the East generally than further West, yet prices are everywhere low on both cider apples and cider. In New York the apple crop is large, and a good many apples are going to the mill with the rate of yield rather less than former seasons, while the quality of the cider is better. Stocks of old cider and cider vinegar are much reduced and vinegar makers will take advantage of the good crop to stock up, prices of vinegar being perhaps the lowest ever known. Farmers as a rule object to accepting prices paid for apples, but it must be remembered that the apple market as a whole will be all the better if much of this cider fruit is kept at home. Many cider mills did not begin operations in earnest until October was well opened, the apples better matured and weather cooler and more favorable. The mills in Eastern New York are paying 7@10 cents per bushel for sound apples delivered,

Geese Culture Remarkably Profitable

The raising of geese for market is one of the most limited branches of the poultry industry, but one of the most profitable. Great quantities of geese have long been reared in Rhode Island and their fame has almost, if not quite, equaled that of the Rhode Island turkey in the markets of the East. Great numbers of young geese are bought by dealers, who fatten them and prepare them for market with such success that Rhode Island geese bring more in Boston and New York than those from any other part of the country. In fact, the home supply is not equal to the demand, and dealers secure geese in Canada, the provinces and other sections. Several expert geese raisers maintain that geese pay better than sheep, and the experience of one man was to the effect that he found that a good goose under his management pays as well as the average cow. The Rhode Island census shows the gross product of geese to be 160 per cent. of their value, taking the State as a whole, while in the principal centres of the goose industry the product is from 200 to 250 per cent. of the value of the stock kept.

A Remarkable Year In Corn.

The corn crop was favorable up to the end. A good season for planting rain and sunshine alternating in proper succession for perfect growth during June and July, hot forcing weather and warm nights during August, and dry weather without frost for final ripening. Such is the remarkable record of 1896, and the crop result is entirely in keeping with such a season.

The average of local estimates makes a general condition for the country of 89.3, practically the same as last month and a little below last year. The variation in State averages, when compared with last year, makes it certain, however, that the rate of yield will finally be reported larger than i... 1895. The crop is much smaller in the South than last year, but in the greacommercial States it is much larger. so there can be little doubt that the crop will finally measure out nttle if any under 2,500,000,000 bushels

In the early spring, when he thinks all indications are favorable for early vegetables, the maanure is hauled awy to the field and the strip of ground is dug over with a common spading fork, laid off into nice beds and the seed planted. Then wire poultry netting, four feet wide is tacked on to the row of posts, excluding everything but air and sunshine. When the manure, which has lain there all winter, is taken off, the soil is found to be as loose and mellow as a well rotted clover sod, and chock full of soluble and available fertility. From neglecting her daily bath to neglecting a weekly hair wash is but a step; there is scarcely a woman in sparcely settled districts who washes her hair once a week. She it more and the hair is simply combed and prepared for sleeping without the necessary brushing. Is it a wonder that

The mind is also neglected. If the country woman does not read, and she is quite likely not to, what has she to think about? Nothing but the farm, the children and the housework.

The house worries are many, the children are troublesome, and living as she does in an atmosphere of work and care, it is not strange that she early reflects her burdens in her face and

If the farmer's wife could but get away from the endless grind for a short time, it would make a new woman of her. But she rarely does. She is a pitiful result of brain and body starvation, and were she to epitomize her life she would sum it up in the words "work and worry."

Men do not understand this, and they wonder why it cannot be relieved by a bottle of sarsaparilla or some other medicine.

> > For a Woman's Air Castle.

Long ago the decree went forth that gas was simply ruination to a pretty woman's eyes. Since then our sympathetic merchants have done their best to remedy this evil by displaying the most attractive lamps imaginable, which, during the dark afternoons, shine forth like a beacon, luring by their soft, steady radiance the burrying crowds to stop and admire and, cerchance, to buy. The newest thing on the market is the beautiful "Vollenden" ware, and really the globes I have seen are tempting enough to make one long for the purse of Prince at the following low prices: Fortunatus. However, if we are not all born with a golden spoon, the maority of us certainly are blessed with rivid imaginations, and a natural failing for building air castles, in which 5 inch,..... 2.50 fancy we can revel without a cent.

THE STATE FAIR

To Be Inaugurated on Wheeling Island, Sept. 4, Will Excel All Others. Old visitors to the annual exhibitions and $100,000 in specie taken off by the of the West Virginia State Fair Associa tion, on Wheeling Island, have watched with the liveliest satisfaction the steady and remarkable growth of this valuable itstitution, and recognize not only its value as an aid to agriculture and stock insurgents. The Pampanga took off her tion, on Wheeling Island, have watched passengers, but could not float the with the liveliest satisfaction the steady value as an aid to agriculture and stock raising, but its purely amusing features. Year by year the added experience of the following described real estate, to-wit: crease in the number and interest of the attractions offered, until the entire week of the fair has become an unbroken procession of valuable and interesting features. This year the efforts of those in charge have been increased, and the result will be in evidence in fuller display in every department than ever before. The rush of exhibitors and the demands for space set in very early this year, and the outlook is a splendid one. The attendance is also expected to break all of the enemy, and the deserters joined in every department than ever before. tendance is also expected to break all records, as the great mass of the people are in better circumstances this season than for some years past. Our readers should take a note of the fact that the fair opens September 4th, and govern themselves accordingly.
